

Don't have access to the Internet? These locations have free computer access.

There are several public locations throughout the four-county Portland region that provide computers with Internet access that can be used for free. Generally, the computers are available during weekday business hours, but it is a good idea to call and check.

The following is a list of places you can go to and search for housing on Housing Connections:

All locations

- ❖ Your local public library—almost all public libraries in the Portland region provide free computer access. Call your local library to find out what days and times their computers are available. Many libraries are open on some evenings and weekends.
